ABOUT ME

I am a backend developer with over two years of dedicated experience in Java development. Proficient in three-tier web architecture, spanning web, backend, and database layers, I have a proven track record of delivering robust solutions.

My portfolio includes several successful personal projects, showcasing my ability to innovate and adapt to evolving challenges in the field. Passionate about continuous improvement, I am committed to expanding my expertise across diverse frontend technologies and embracing best practices in DevOps. My relentless pursuit of knowledge and growth ensures that I remain at the forefront of the ever-evolving software engineering landscape.
